

LIGHTHOUSE LOFOTEN

17-18 OCTOBER 2019

Conference on prevention and cleanup of marine litter

The Lighthouse Lofoten conference will focus on the good solutions to handle the global problem of marine litter.

How can we prevent plastics from marine sources to end up in our marine environment? The conference also seeks to find and enlighten how we can join forces and resources to clean up marine litter.

The goal of the conference is to connect people working to fight marine littering around the world and to share knowledge, ideas and experiences. The Lighthouse Lofoten conference is an effort to guide us in the right direction for a clean and healthy ocean.

MAIN TOPICS:

Lost at sea:

Prevention, retrieval and waste reception of marine litter from marine sources

From coast to coast:

Global partnership and cooperation – tasks and ambitions

The global lighthouse:

Joining forces and resources in coastal cleanups

Welcome to two days of sharing knowledge and experiences in the inspirational and arctic surroundings of the Lofoten Islands in Norway.

The conference is the week before “Our Ocean 2019” in Oslo, Norway.

TIME AND PLACE:

17- 18 October 2019
Svolvær in Lofoten - Norway
